Student Profile For Math Selection

K

As you begin to think about math course selection for your child it is important to consider the effects of both the academic side and the social/emotional side. While we should all be striving to be appropriately challenged, please understand all math students (regardless of level) can be successful in high school, college, and life.

Many students fall between these two columns and can “fit” in one of them better than the other. Once chosen, it is our job at EWMS to evaluate and communicate the effects of both the academic and social/emotional side for all students during the first 4 weeks and suggest adjustments in both a potential move up to Math A Honors or a potential move down to Math A (space may be limited for any class changes). Below is a guide where most students fit and there are always exceptions to this list.

Math A

- o SBAC score (5th and 6th grade): Standard Nearly Met or Standard Met
- o MDTP score (spring 6th grade): 45-79
- o Average to good math student
- o Takes time to master a new concept
- o Desire to do what is required
- o Displays an average to good work ethic
- o Motivated most of the time
- o Less of an independent learner; sometimes relies on the help of others
- o May need hints when faced with complex problems
- o May need assistance with finding mistakes in work
- o Prefers routine in solving problems
- o May have difficulty explaining reasoning behind the math
- o Confident with routine problems
- o Can be excited about math
- o Typical homework load
- o May need parental guidance to balance school work and extracurricular activities

Math A Honors

K

- o SBAC score (5th and 6th grade): Standard Exceeded
- o MDTP score (spring 6th grade): 80-100
- o Exceptional math student
- o Masters a new concept quickly
- o Desire to go beyond what is required
- o Displays a good to exceptional work ethic
- o Almost always self-motivated
- o More of an independent learner; can get through new material without much outside help
- o Enjoys solving complex problems on their own
- o Often finds errors in work without assistance
- o Divergent thinker- finds alternate ways to solve a problem
- o Explaining the meaning behind the math comes easily (may even give multiple methods)
- o Confident with more open-ended problems
- o Is excited about math
- o Heavier homework load
- o Comfortably balances school work and extracurricular activities
