Jean Twenge is a highly sought-after speaker, professor of psychology at San Diego State University, and author of Generation Me and iGen. Her research suggests that today's "smartphone generation" is likely to be lonelier, more unhappy and more anxious than prior generations. In this free event, sponsored by the Earl Warren PTSA, Dr. Twenge presents her research on the effects of screens and social media on teens and tweens, along with guidance on what parents can do to mitigate potentially negative effects of technology.

This presentation is intended for parents only.
